

Programming Partner User Manual

1 LOGIN

Thank you for purchasing Programming Partner! The first thing you'll notice upon starting up Programming Partner uses a very standard login system.

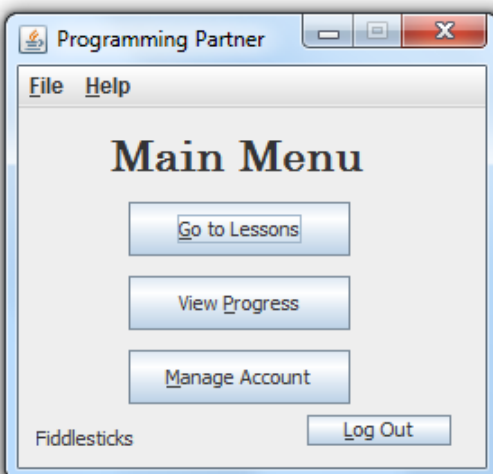

It is mostly self-explanatory. Usernames and passwords will be used to keep track of your progress through the lessons and add a layer of security. Whatever your username is will be displayed in the next screen. For this example we are using user Fiddlesticks.

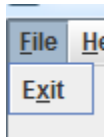

User Name :

2 MAIN MENU

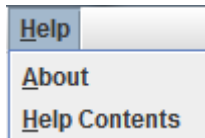

After logging in, you will notice your name on the bottom left corner. This screen is where you can go to lessons, view progress, and manage your account (change passwords).

If you wish to quit, you may use the Log Out button to return to the login screen or the Exit option under the File dropdown to quit the program entirely.

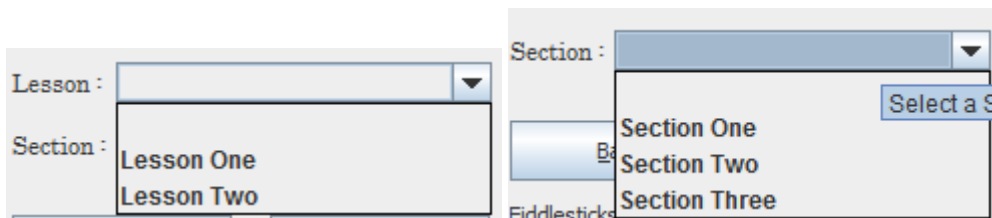

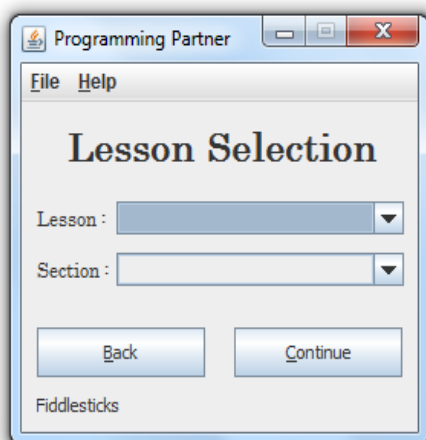

The Help dropdown gives access to the User Manual, as you are probably aware, as well as the About section. These are both accessible at any part of the program.

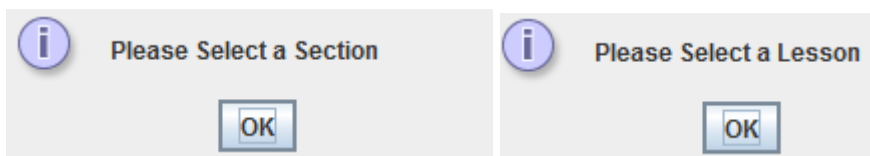

3 LESSON SELECTION

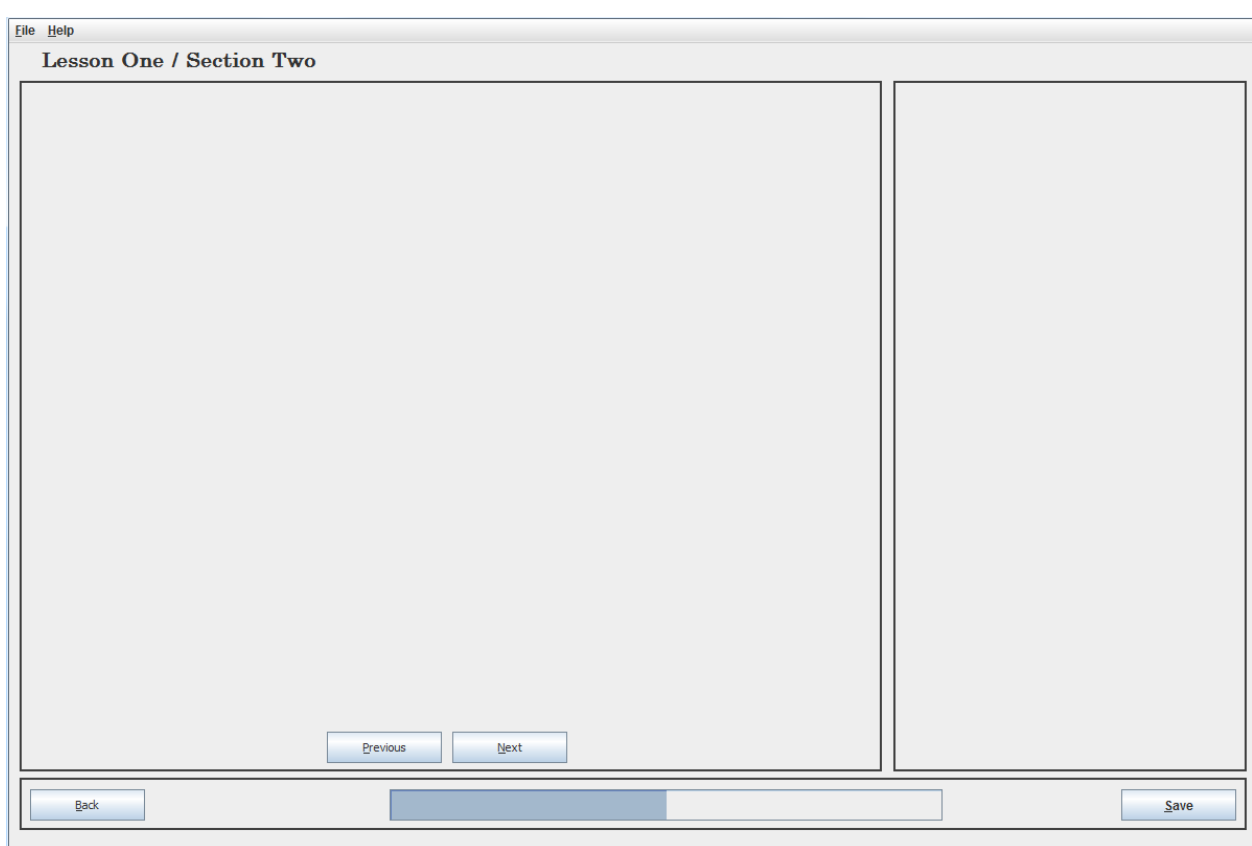

From this screen, you are given two dropdown menus from which you can select the lesson and section you wish to view.

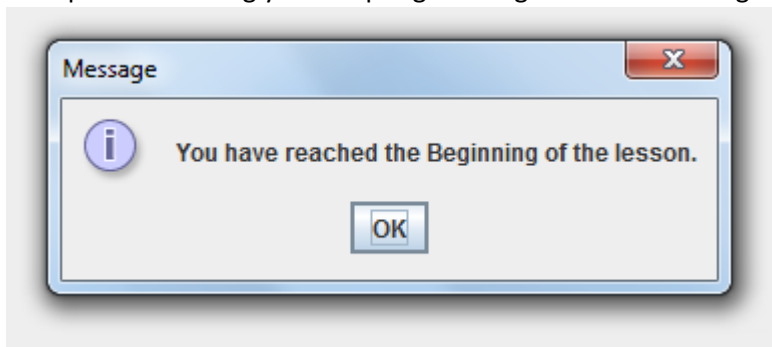

The Back and Continue buttons go back to Main Menu and go to the selected lesson, respectively. If you attempt to hit continue without selecting a lesson or section, an error message will appear.

4 LESSON VIEW

This screen is where lessons are displayed. Lesson slides will be displayed in the largest panel in the top left of the screen. Navigation between slides is simple: just use the Previous and Next buttons in the slide panel accordingly. Attempting to navigate before the beginning of the lesson will result in an error:

If you would like to save where you are in the lesson, hit the Save button in the bottom right corner. The Back button brings you back to the lesson select screen.
